I had the responsibility of learning and creating respectively, I had the opportunity of working with other people in teams to create some web apps. I have created a great number of web applications while learning, I was able to work with some API and programming languages.

- I created multiple websites using varieties of programming languages and their libraries, different apps were used to design the web application, clean codes were written with a spice of a documentation
- I worked with colleagues on an open-source project with lots of engagements.
